

MANIFEST

Status4 has a purpose. And our main mission is to make sure it never gets lost, no matter our size or in how many cities or countries we are present. We are aware that technology has triggered deep changes in the world. In industry, health, and people's daily lives.

However, it is not technology that moves us around, as it is the means and not the end. Our main goal is linked to what is essential to life. Water is not made on an industrial scale, nor is it replaced by related products. It is unique, unreplaceable, and essential. That is why preserving it is something so latent for our future as humanity.

And this is how today we celebrate our seventh anniversary developing technology to avoid losses in water distribution. Since 2015 we have made mistakes, learned, evolved, and adapted. Everything to reach even more promising results which impact not only our company, but also the world.

We have already identified more than eight thousand leakages and have saved more than 46 Olympic swimming pools per day in volume of water. This is only the beginning. Together we want to continue firm in the purpose, growing and multiplying. Much more than providing financial saving, we would like to make the difference for the planet. Around here we will always think about technology to preserve the essentials.
